ARMS ELEVEN EASY WINNERS IN POOR GAME

(By Wagner.)

The Remington-Arms gridiron warriors appear to have exhausted all the strong opponents in this vicinity if one is to judge by the calibre of the opposition furnished by the Hartford team yesterday. The visitors were not in the same class with the locals, who could have piled up a much larger score had they taken the game seriously. As it was the Arms rolled up 25 points to zero for the enemy.

The public has been very generous with its patronage this season, and the Arms management should try to get the strongest teams here as attractions. Such exhibitions as yesterday hurt the sport. In order not to do injustice to anybody the alibi might be offered that perhaps the Arms management didn't know Hartford was such a weak team.

The visitors could do nothing when they had the ball and their defense was like a sieve. Sometimes the Arms giants were laughing so hard they couldn't hold the platoon. Seeley and Moshier reeled off long gains and O'Reilly was good at line smashing. Richardson was a power in the line and McCarthy gave a fine exhibition of end play. He started the fireworks by intercepting a forward pass in the opening period and running 20 yards for a touchdown. Seeley failed to kick goal.

George Moshier made the second touchdown on a ten yard sprint and this time Seeley added the extra point. The third touchdown was chalked up by Eddie Reilly in the second period while Moshier made the last score. Dwyer's playing at center for the Arms was worthy of mention and Rosenpenny was in good form at guard. The crowd was large. The line-up:

Hartford.	Arms.
Silk	McCarthy
Reardon	Flanagan
Lyman	Drowne
McCoy	Rosenpenny
Miller	Baker, Corkins
Gaylor	Reilly, Corkins
Claffey	Moshier
Leddy	Seeley, Casey

KING, HARVARD'S FOOTBALL HERO, HAS 2 CHILDREN

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 8.—Stubborn Dick King, once the lowliest of scrubby studs, has at the entrance to the Harvard gallery of big football heroes. It was King's long leap in the air of the Tiger Saturday that started the pendulum of victory well on its way toward the Crimson.

King was an awkward rookie when he reported for the freshmen football in 1912. He didn't have a ghost of a chance to make it, but plucked relentlessly all fall.

The next fall he reported for the varsity and for a whole season endured the bangs and chaffing from more successful rivals. He was often told that he would never make a football player, but he persisted.

In the spring of 1914 he was a baseball candidate for pitcher, and when he was dropped reported for the infield. Dropped again, he bobbed up with the explanation that he might make a good awkward rookie when he reported for the varsity. It was then that King took counsel with Charley Brickley, the Crimson captain.

Brickley took him under his wing, advised him and taught him a few points on football, but at that King just barely clung to the fringe when the squad was chosen. King made his worth known, however, almost from the start, and much to his delight, was used as a sub against Yale. This year he has come along fast, and is considered "one of the best Harvard backs on the defense."

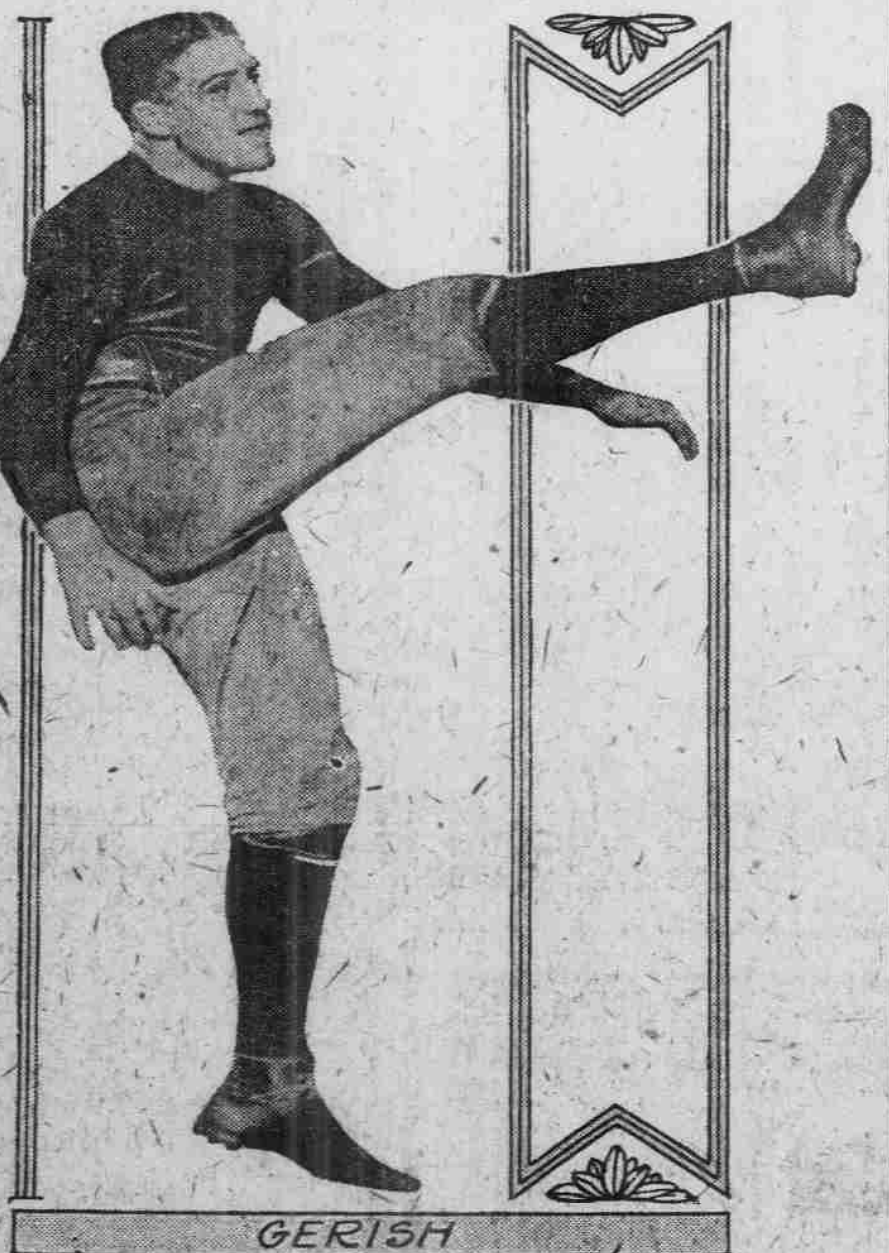

King is married, and lives in Watertown. He has two children, a little girl two years old and an infant son six months old. He is working his way through Harvard, and consequently finds little time for college clubs and has a membership in none. He is a Boston Latin School boy, as were two other men who played against Princeton, Soucy and Billy Soles.

GARRISH, DARTMOUTH HALFBACK, ONE OF REAL STARS OF THE YEAR

GERISH

Hanover, Mass., Nov. 8.—When the football experts are selecting their All American teams for the season of 1915 it would be well for them to look carefully over the playing of Garrish, Dartmouth's star halfback. This mole-skin warrior has done some brilliant all around playing right since the beginning of the season. While not as spectacular as a Mahan or a Barrett, he must be classed as one of the best men of the year in his position.

PICK KOCHER TO MAKE GOOD WITH GIANTS NEXT YEAR

New York, Nov. 8.—The New York Giants, who finished an utter last in the National league, have this thought to cheer them through the winter: The gang will all be at Marlin, Tex., next spring.

John J. McGraw expects to finish well up in the first division next season with practically the same team that brought him such sorrow this year. He believes he has a strong club and that all he needs is another catcher and an outfielder. The pitching staff will remain intact.

McGraw still has great confidence in Jim Thorpe, once the world's greatest athlete, who thus far has been a disappointment to the Giants. Thorpe is one of the fastest men in baseball and is a dependable outfielder. But he can't hit a curve ball.

"McGraw expects Thorpe to be a regular next year," said John B. Foster, secretary of the Giants, yesterday. "Jim's trouble has been that he hasn't waited for the curves to break. He always wants to kill the ball and he pulls away as he hits. At Marlin next spring you will see Jim practicing batting left-handed. When Brainard came to the Giants he pulled away, but toward the end of the season he tried batting from the right side of the plate and he immediately began to show improvement in hitting."

Thorpe was trying it after he returned to us last September and it brought him luck. He also was taking batting practice with his back against a fence, so he couldn't pull away, and he was meeting curve balls as accurately as anybody you ever saw. Next year, unless I'm a mighty bad judge, Jim Thorpe will be a regular.

More than 35 men will report for practice at Marlin next spring. The practice will be at first base, Doyle at second, Fletcher at shortstop and Lobert at third, with no particular promise of youngsters trying to oust them from their jobs. Eddie Grant and Fred Brainerd will be the utility infielders.

George Burns will be back in left field and Robertson in right, with Jim Thorpe probably in centre.

For pitchers McGraw will have Mathewson, Perritt, Benton, Tesreau, Stroud, Schupp, Schauer and Ritter, of this year's team, and for catchers Chief Meyers and Wandell.

The irregulars will be as follows: Pitchers: Emiliano Palmero, the young Cuban southpaw, who has been at Marlin with the Giants two years, but who has not worked himself into a regular position. He is said to be a right hander.

Roy Kramer, bought from Vancouver, and Fred Herbert, bought from Toronto, are the only other young pitchers now under contract to the Giants. Several others may be picked up before the training season opens.

Outfielders: Sharman, drafted from Portsmouth, Gato; Kelly, from Vancouver, who was with the club the last month of the season; Jacobson, from the Brooklyn club of the Colonial league; Becker, from Lewiston, Me.; Babington, from Brown University; Farrell, drafted from Portland, Me.; and Harrison, bought from Dallas, Tex.

Infielders: Ben Dyer, formerly the property of the Giants, but last year with St. Paul; Carroll, third baseman, from Fordham; and Howard Baker, third baseman, drafted from Little Rock.

Catchers: Robert Schang, picked up on a waiver this season, and Kocher, drafted from Toronto. Kocher played several games with the Giants, and looks as if he would be able to stick. The New York fans probably will see little next year of the irregular infielders, and will not more than a glance or two at five of the seven irregular outfielders.

RIBBONS TACKLE TRIANGLE SQUAD TOMORROW NIGHT

Joe Johnson, heralded as one of the best forwards in this section, will be with the St. James Triangle team which meets the Blue Ribbon basketball stars in Colonial hall tomorrow night. Walter Swenson will be assigned to cover Johnson and the visitor will have to travel fast to get away from the Ribbon guard, Malone, a veteran player, will be seen at center.

Dreyfus, whose work against the Ribbons last Tuesday was heartily applauded, is one of the Triangle guards.

Manager Leavy says the Ribbons, who showed a need of practice last week, will do better tomorrow night. The big game will commence at 8:30 and will be followed by dancing. The preliminary, between the Oaklands and the Celtics, will start at 7:30.

The lineup of the main contest:

Blue Ribbons.	St. James.
Beckman.....R.F.	Shume
Clinton.....L.F.	Johnson
Leonard.....C.	Malone
Roach.....R.G.	Buffy
Swenson.....L.G.	Dreyfus

BROOKLAWN STAR WINS AT LAKEWOOD

The Brooklawn Country club added to its list of golf honors Saturday when C. G. Waldo won the chief cup in the annual fall tournament of the Country club of Lakewood, N. J. Waldo's opponent in the finals was Emiliano Palmero, who was the former runner up in the New Jersey state championship. The Brooklawn player and his opponent had to go 19 holes before the match was settled.

It was the finishing touch to a day of surprises for Waldo himself never expected to win, as shown by his jocular remark to Risley before the match started. "Let me down easy," laughed Waldo. "Don't beat me by more than ten holes." Risley smiled, but made no reply.

In the semi-final Waldo found himself opposed to Pierce A. Frol, the Runson Club champion, and much to the surprise of the spectators Waldo caught his man on the first six holes coming in, and won by 3 and 2. He has a propensity for sticking to his task until beaten down completely, and it was by this very persistence that he gained the chief trophy.

One of that accuracy which marked Risley's morning round was noticeable in the afternoon against Waldo, and although the veteran himself was none too expert he beat his man up to and around the greens. Risley was wholly unable to approach with any degree of certainty, while his putting was nothing like that of Waldo. Where Risley had the only advantage was off the tee, and generally he was the better by a dozen yards or more.

CORNELL LOOKS LIKE CHAMPION FOR THIS YEAR

New York, Nov. 8.—Tasting the games of Saturday into account, it now looks as if Cornell would have fairly clear title to first place in the ranking of the eastern elevens. Unless the big team from Ithaca goes stale in the next two weeks and a half, it should have an easy time trimming the University of Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving Day and finds the season with a fine record upon which there is no blot of defeat.

About the only teams at present which could dispute first place with Cornell are Colgate and the University of Pittsburgh. There is little doubt that if the two met Capt. Barrett's eleven would defeat Colgate, and it is scarcely fair to consider Pittsburgh in the ratings, for the reason that we understand that the rules of this latter institution still prohibit the playing of freshmen and of one-year men. If Princeton, for instance, could have played some of its ineligible, the Harvard contest might have had another outcome.

As it is, however, the Tigers must be considered to have had a most successful season. They probably will finish their schedule with only one defeat, as it now seems likely that they not only will beat Yale next Saturday, but that they may run up a big score.

Princeton, by the way, would appear to have brilliant prospects for next year. Positioning itself to tackle the Harvard game, Gennert, Hogg, Nourae and McLean each have one more year of football and Parisette has two more.

Back of the line Driggs will be present to do the punting and Tibbott to kick a few goals from the field. Tibbott looks like the best drop kicker since the time of Brickley. The goals he kicked against Harvard were bullet-like in their accuracy and speed.

The Tigers' chief problem will be to find a man to take the place of Glick.

The football system at Cambridge has again justified itself. Haughton, has taken material considerably poorer than he has had for the past couple of seasons and developed what has come to be known as a typical Harvard machine. His achievement in beating Princeton this year is a memorable one and the Crimson should encounter little difficulty in trimming Yale.

Cambridge should also have an improved team next year. By this we mean that it should show a general improvement, for the loss of Mahan will mean the loss of about 50 per cent of the credit of the team. The Crimson captain is one of the great football players of the generation. Soucy, too, will leave a hole that will be hard to fill.

Looks as if about the only thing that Yale has left is hope for the future. The coaching of the veterans who have hurried back to the aid of their alma mater appears to have stiffened the defense somewhat, but the Bulldogs is in a bad way when its followers have to comfort themselves with the thought that although beaten by Brown they at least kept another small college from crossing their goal line.

PRINCETON THINKS CAPT. GLICK HAS VERY HARD LUCK

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 8.—Princeton is a quiet town. A large number of the students followed the team out of town and the few that remain are extracting no satisfaction from the aftermath of the game. Princeton is a good loser, but it stings to have to acquire such an experience in that respect.

The team went to Atlantic City immediately after the game and will have an easy time until the players return. Then there will probably be a little scrimmage, with most of the emphasis placed on the defensive play of the team. All of the men reported in good condition after the game, only Gennert and McLean showing any effects of the struggle, and in their case it was physical exhaustion and not injuries.

SECURE HOUCK TO MEET FABRYCK IN BOXING BOUT HERE

The card for the South End A. C. boxing show at the Casino November 15 has been completed and the management expects the attractions will please the fans. Tommy Houck has been placed in the main event to meet Fabryck, the Fairfield slugger. The boys will meet in the semi-final, which is scheduled for eight rounds. The weight will be 135 at 3 o'clock.

It was hoped that Harry Pierce would arrive in time yesterday to be introduced at the Remington-Arms football game but he did not get in the city until later in the afternoon. He has started training at Aj McCoy's camp in Stratford. His opponent will be Andy Cortez, who recently gave Leach Cox a hard battle in New Haven. Cortez has finally posted his forfeit money. The boys agree to make 135 pounds at 3 o'clock.

The opening bout of six rounds will have as principals Young Dundee and

WAGNER'S OWN COLUMN

Most of those who saw the game at the Yale Bowl last Saturday, agreed that the Eli team had improved greatly in defense. The line was harder to pierce and the ends seldom allowed themselves to be fooled by the Brown runners.

However, Capt. Wilson and his new staff of coaches have at least managed to strengthen the defensive department.

The backfield work against Brown proved to be a disappointment. There was no real work against the false alarm and with the exception of Scovill, the other backs were little better. They were slow in starting and frequently fumbled. One or two attempts at lateral passing were pitiful. There seems to be no life in the backfield men. Instead of jumping into the opposing line with confidence they advance as if they knew they would be thrown for a loss.

Harvard surprised those who expected a Princeton triumph. Coach Haughton had worked a wonderful improvement in his team since the Cornell game. The Crimson players displayed fine generalship throughout and took advantage of every Princeton mistake. They were able to produce the scoring punch as the right minute, something Princeton lacked. A New York writer said, "Princeton made only two mistakes in fundamentals but Harvard didn't make any."

The Washington Glee club of New Haven defeated a team from Fort Wright yesterday by 87 to 0. The soldiers must have been worse than the Hartford misfits who appeared at Newford park against the Arms eleven.

Johnny Nagle, who formerly caught for the New Haven baseball team, re-

Kid Lewis of this city. Matchmaker Williams has arranged to have Dave Fitzgerald of New Haven referee. Slim Brennan of the Acorn A. C. will be announcer and Al Burdick will be timekeeper. Popular prices will prevail.

Tommy Houck was last seen in this city when he met Young McAuliffe at Eagles' hall two years ago. He has met Frankie Fleming, Frankie Burns and other good men and should prove a worthy opponent for Fabryck.

HARVARD TO USE SUBS IN CONTEST WITH BROWN TEAM

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 8.—Harvard came through the rugged Princeton contest with hardly a scratch. Harte got mugged up during the melee, just as he did a week ago in the Penn State game, but will be around by Wednesday. King and Watson were pretty well tuckered out, because of their hard usage last Saturday, and they, too, will take their time about returning to work.

Watson's play on Saturday pleased Coach Haughton immensely, and "Dumny" has the call to start the contest with Yale. He showed fine generalship also against the Elis last season and is at present best suited to handle the eleven. Watson's play at right tackle last Saturday can stand improvement, but, with the exception of Boles at left half, the team should start in the same order against Yale. Boles will be replaced by Tom Enwright, who will jump into action this week.

It is very likely that the team for the Brown game will be composed of substitutes. The Princeton Coach Haughton's policy for several years past.

LOCAL SOCCERITES BEAT FARR ALPACA

In one of the finest soccer games ever witnessed in this city, the largest turnout in the record of local soccer football, the Bridgeport City defeated the Farr Alpaca of Holyoke, Mass., yesterday afternoon in the first round of an elimination series for the American soccer cup, by a score of 2 to 0.

The Bridgeport team played the second half of the game with only 10 men, owing to an injury sustained by Finley, a center, with the first half of the Alpaca. Excitement was most intense during the middle of the second period, when time and again the local eleven battered the goal posts of the Alpaca, but all to no avail, owing to great defensive work on the part of Good, goal tender for the Massachusetts aggregation.

The feature of the game was the work of Happinistall and Satterwaith of the Citys. Previous to scoring the first goal of the afternoon, Satterwaith took the ball from in front of his own goal post and worked it through the entire opposing field, amid cheers of the large gathering of fans.

The soccer team of Summerfield school defeated the Staples school last Saturday by 4 to 0. The Summerfield school has a number of new stars, including Phelan.

YALE WORKS ON BACKFIELD FOR PRINCETON

New Haven, Nov. 8.—The Yale coaches regard Saturday's showing as a distinct improvement in defensive play. The collapse of the attack, due to the injury of Scovill, the inexperience of VanNostrand and Bingham, and the fact that Captain Wilson had been shifted from quarterback to half-back, was not unexpected and the present week will be devoted to building up the backfield rather than depending as much attention to the rush-line as was given the past week.

Tom Shevlin's Minnesota wing shift was in evidence occasionally Saturday and is reckoned upon as one of the staples of the Yale attack for the remainder of the season. Brown's use of the lateral pass, which Yale has temporarily abandoned, attested to the strength of that play, an invention of Frank Jenney last year.

If Yale possessed a backfield of experience, the play would quickly make its reappearance on the Eli gridiron. Its success lies, however, in constant practice. Scovill was the only member of the Yale backfield in his regular position and to attempt lateral passing with the backfield unused to such other would have been little less than suicidal tactics.

VanNostrand failed to meet expectations at quarterback Saturday but the coaches still have faith in him and he is the most likely choice as field general. It is possible that Bill Savage would be selected but for a bad knee. Savage played the position the most brilliantly of any of the three occupants and his punting exceeded that of any other of the six kickers of the two elevens. Bingham is not yet in his best form but showed himself the best defensive player of the Yale backfield and is regarded a fixture at left halfback.

Jim Higginbotham joined the eleven today, but the end rush play of "Buck" Church indicated that he is a factor in the final selection of left end. Moseley, who was hurt two weeks ago, is now ready to play again. This position will probably be the last to be settled in the Yale lineup. Carl Wiedeman, on the other hand, is a fixture.

Howard Balbridge will be placed at left tackle this week and it is expected that he will play most of the Princeton game. "Chub" before may be able to get into the game against the Tigers for a single playing period, although not in his best form. Black will resume work at guard this week, and with Kent will probably prove the final selection for the two flank positions. Although McGrath may regain his eligibility, he has not played regularly all the fall and is not likely to be available for the full Princeton game.

very popular with the fans. Godfrey was a colored man, a native of Canada, and a resident of Boston. Although not very much above the minimum weight limit, he fought many heavyweights, knocking out Patsy Cardiff and other good fellows. "Old Chocolate" once challenged Sullivan. He was defeated by Peter Jackson, and was knocked out by Jake Kilrain, Joe Choyanski and Peter Maher. O'Donnell was an Australian, and fought many battles in America. He gave Kid McCoy a furious battle, ending in a draw, but at a later meeting the Hoochie Kid knocked him out in the 6th chapter. Poor Steve was scarcely able to get a glove on the clever McCoy. He was knocked down repeatedly before the Kid landed the finishing touch. O'Donnell was also defeated by Joe Choyanski, Gus Ruhlin and Peter Maher.
